 - Students seem to be adapting more readily to the full-day schedule when they reach grade one.
 - There is no apparent delay in language learning from the full-day breaks in between school days.
 - Students still enjoy the full-day of academic learning as per curriculum, and the full-day format seems to allow teachers to stay on track with learning objectives when schedules are affected by school events.

 - Parents who would like to observe a class are encouraged to schedule a time to visit!
